Your students will appreciate hearing about three benefits of the new REx-PN: there will be no limit on the number of times they can write the exam, the exam will be available to write at any time, and they will be able to retake the exam as many times as they need. Here’s how they can do it:

No limit on writes on REx-PN™

REx-PN exam writers will usually have their results within 2 business days after writing. However, if a writer fails the exam, they will have to wait a minimum of 60 days between attempts, which is not the case with the CPNRE. Some of your students graduating this year and who will be writing the CPNRE before the end of 2021 may be wondering what will happen if they fail the REx-PN. We’ll be happy to answer their questions.

The REx-PN will be available to write at any time in permanent and temporary centres of the exam provider, Pearson. REx-PN™ writers will have a minimum of 15 days between attempts, which means a maximum of six attempts per year.

A REMINDER:

Space is limited, so if you have signed-up but can’t attend, please free up the space so another person can attend. If your preferred time is not available, check the registration site regularly to see if space has opened up before the event.

FOR EDUCATORS ONLY: Learn to create CAT-style questions

Adaptive Testing (CAT) questions for use in your own programs.

A reminder that during April and May, webinars will be held to help you learn to write Computer Adaptive Testing (CAT) questions for use in your own programs.

FOR STUDENTS:

Applicants to CNO write a Jurisprudence Exam that tests for this knowledge.

No. The REx-PN will not test knowledge of health care systems, history, cultural issues, or government legislation. The REx-PN exam writers will usually have their results within 2 business days after writing. However, if a writer fails the exam, they will have to wait a minimum of 60 days between attempts, which is not the case with the CPNRE. Some of your students graduating this year and who will be writing the CPNRE before the end of 2021 may be wondering what will happen if they fail the REx-PN. We’ll be happy to answer their questions.

Who to contact

We are always available to answer your questions. You can reach out to us at RExPN@cnomail.org. Here’s what to watch for to help you and your students prepare:

Ensuring you have the info you need

Thank you for all who answered our survey on how we can support you over the next year. Here’s what to watch for to help you and your students prepare:

Questions to answers

How many questions will the REx-PN™ have?

The number of questions on an exam writer will vary. Some writers will be minimum of 150. Of those, 30 questions are being pretested for possible inclusion on future exams and will not count in the exam writer’s score. The remaining 120 to 150 questions will be scored on the exam writer’s score. The number of questions an exam writer will receive will range from a minimum of 90 to a maximum of 120 questions. Of those, 60 to 120 questions will count in the exam writer’s score. The remaining 30 questions are being pretested for possible inclusion on future exams and will not count in the exam writer’s score.

Video to help explain a CAT exam

The REx-PN™ will use a computerized adaptive testing (CAT) format. The system determines the level of difficulty of the question a writer is answering based on their previous answers. If a writer answers a question correctly, the next question presented will be slightly more difficult. A candidate must achieve a certain ability level (passing standard) on every question they respond to. We’ll provide information about how they did in each section of the exam, indicating whether they performed above, near or below the passing standard to help them prepare for a future exam write.

Answers to your questions

How many questions will the REx-PN™ have?

The number of questions on an exam writer will vary. Some writers will be minimum of 150. Of those, 30 questions are being pretested for possible inclusion on future exams and will not count in the exam writer’s score. The remaining 120 to 150 questions will be scored on the exam writer’s score. The number of questions an exam writer will receive will range from a minimum of 90 to a maximum of 120 questions. Of those, 60 to 120 questions will count in the exam writer’s score. The remaining 30 questions are being pretested for possible inclusion on future exams and will not count in the exam writer’s score. The number of questions an exam writer will receive will range from a minimum of 90 to a maximum of 120 questions. Of those, 60 to 120 questions will count in the exam writer’s score. The remaining 30 questions are being pretested for possible inclusion on future exams and will not count in the exam writer’s score.

We are always available to answer your questions. You can reach out to us at RExPN@cnomail.org. Here’s what to watch for to help you and your students prepare:

Ensuring you have the info you need

Thank you for all who answered our survey on how we can support you over the next year. Here’s what to watch for to help you and your students prepare:

Questions to answers

How many questions will the REx-PN™ have?

The number of questions on an exam writer will vary. Some writers will be minimum of 150. Of those, 30 questions are being pretested for possible inclusion on future exams and will not count in the exam writer’s score. The remaining 120 to 150 questions will be scored on the exam writer’s score. The number of questions an exam writer will receive will range from a minimum of 90 to a maximum of 120 questions. Of those, 60 to 120 questions will count in the exam writer’s score. The remaining 30 questions are being pretested for possible inclusion on future exams and will not count in the exam writer’s score. The number of questions an exam writer will receive will range from a minimum of 90 to a maximum of 120 questions. Of those, 60 to 120 questions will count in the exam writer’s score. The remaining 30 questions are being pretested for possible inclusion on future exams and will not count in the exam writer’s score. The number of questions an exam writer will receive will range from a minimum of 90 to a maximum of 120 questions. Of those, 60 to 120 questions will count in the exam writer’s score. The remaining 30 questions are being pretested for possible inclusion on future exams and will not count in the exam writer’s score. The number of questions an exam writer will receive will range from a minimum of 90 to a maximum of 120 questions. Of those, 60 to 120 questions will count in the exam writer’s score. The remaining 30 questions are being pretested for possible inclusion on future exams and will not count in the exam writer’s score.